MARK'S personal estate, it is said, amounted to about $3,000,000.

TRUDE HALL, member of a suit-club, killed herself with gas in New York.

NAVAL Constructor Hobson was accorded a great ovation during his visit to Atlanta.

THE Queen Regent of Spain favors Paris as the place for the final peace negotiations.

YOUNG King Alfonso of Spain has regained his health, the measles having run its course.

THE losses of cattle on the California ranches are less disastrous than had been expected.

NINE hundred tons of ice, the gift of the Gardner, of Long Island, has arrived at Santiago.

CLARA LOESCHE, aged 19, was shot and killed by a burglar whom she surprised in her room.

THE cruiser Columbia, which went ashore in Ponce harbor, Porto Rico, has floated without injury.

ADMIRAL DEWEY expects to be able to save two of the best Spanish cruisers which he sank in Manila harbor.

A SMOKELESS powder factory is to be established at Cleveland, O., by a company which has a government contract.

CECIL RHODES is trying to get back at the polls in the South African Republic powers he lost by the Jameson raid.

FRANCIS MURPHY, the well-known temperance advocate, has been appointed chaplain of the 5th Pennsylvania Regiment.

FRANK C. FLEMING, of Chicago, was killed to death by falling 2000 feet into a crevasse in the Valdez Glacier, Alaska.

LETTERS received from Alaska say many prospectors have abandoned their search for gold and are locating elsewhere.

UNDER the personal direction of Admiral Dewey the navy yard, arsenal, and barracks at Cavite have been established.

THE people of the Isle of Pines are starving, and the report that they have been furnishing Cuba with food is thus proven false.

AARON KINSLOW, a farmer, near Glasgow, Ky., 90 years old, committed suicide by hanging himself to the rafters in his barn.

WADE COUNTS, leader of a notorious band of outlaws near Red Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and his son were killed by lightning.

THE city council of Dublin, Ireland, adopted a resolution opposing the erection of a monument to Gladstone in that city.

CHARLES MARTIN, in jail at Evansville, Ind., confessed he killed Lazarus, a wealthy lumberman in the city of 1895, for $10.

ACCORDING to reports of railroad companies and business men throughout the country this year's wheat crop will be the largest in the history of the United States.

LOUIS PERRI, a prisoner in New York, died, was put in a coffin, loaded on an undertaker's wagon. A rough ride over a short distance completely revived him, and he begged lustily to be released.

A HIGHWAYMAN held up Police Judge W. B. Burress, nearly 60 years old, Sunday night at Sedalia, Mo. The judge managed to get out his knife, and charge of the robber, but he broke away and escaped a short distance from the police station, whither he was being sent.

REV. R. D. WEAR, who resigned as chaplain of the 5th Regiment Immunes, United States Volunteers, just as the peace was setting out for Santiago to a peace garrison, thereby so incurred the disapprobation of certain residents of Birmingham, Ala., that he was yesterday hanged in effigy.

ELVIRA SYDNOR MILLER

Meditates on the Confederate Association at Atlanta—A Prose Poem.

Miss Elvira Sydnor Miller is the author of this tender and beautiful bit of word painting on the Confederate Association recently convened at Atlanta, which is such a charming literary bouquet that we cannot refrain from reproducing it:

"They came from the tawny shores of the Rio Grande, from the blue mountains and green valleys of old Virginia, from the bayous of Louisiana, from the bluegrass uplands of Kentucky, from the pine woods of the Carolinas, the evergreen glades and hammocks of Florida, from the forests of Tennessee and the country that is washed by the imperial Mississippi. The good old rebel yell resounded throughout the South, and where her sons once marched with war and rapine they treaded hand in hand with love and beauty. * * * And then, perchance, there will come a silence like unto that which follows after prayer as they think of the old commanders—Lee, slumbering in the shadow of the blue Virginia mountains; Jackson, who has crossed over the river and is resting beneath the shadow of trees; Pelham, for whom the winds of the solemn pine woods sung a lullaby; Stuart, Ashby, Beauregard, Johnston, gallant heroes, whose executor was Fame, and whose successor was Glory. * * * And the singers of the Lost Cause, like the great leaders, are no more. * * * The pines of his own beloved Georgia sing a requiem to Lander, and the Kentucky sighs softly as it winds beneath the green hill where Stanton takes his last long rest. * * * And the women. Those angels who once watched and prayed for the Johnnie Rebs, who ministered in the hospitals and moved over the battle fields. They and their daughters were at Atlanta, the honored guests of the city. The Kentucky girl, like some dashing thoroughbred from the blue grass uplands. The Louisiana belle, fair as an autumn evening or the magnolia of her beloved State. The starry-eyed beauty from the Mississippi, the 'yellow-rose' of Texas that beats the belle of Tennessee; the stately Virginian, queen-like in her looks and bearings as the daughter of a hundred earls; the lovely Alabamian, the Tennessean, sweet and fresh as the pink laurels from her mountain fastnesses; the Carolina queen and the Florida siren, in whose ears are ever the song of the sea and whose eyes mirror the cloudless blue of the skies. The whole South will break forth into her joy. Her hands are filled with roses and her eyes with tears. And as she stands with her beloved sons and daughters about her, far away on the breeze comes the sound of rejoicing at Santiago, where the glad light of the morning falls like a benediction on one flag, one county and one cause."

STRAY SCRAPS

Scraped Together and Served Up by James Swango.

Miss Elizabeth Pieratt, of Ezel, is visiting friends in Paris, Ills.

Mrs. Lizzie Turner has returned from her old home at Mt. Sterling to her daughter's, Mrs. Will Miller, at Paris, Illinois.

The drouth through the corn belt of Indiana, Illinois and Iowa has been broken. Corn is about a two-thirds crop.

The proprietor of the Union Stock Yards at Cleveland, O., says he believes cattle will remain at the present high prices for at least a year. The scrub cattle of the extreme Southern States have more than doubled in value in two years. The quarantine prevents their shipment north except during the months of January and February.

Misses Myrtle and Stella Harmon, of Warrensburg, Mo., mention of whom was made in a recent issue, are still visiting friends and relatives in Illinois and Indiana. No more popular young ladies could be found, both being accomplished musicians and possessing social attainments and personal charms that make them queens in society. Miss Stella possesses a voice of rare culture, and her numerous invitations to sing in public in Paris, Ill., and Terre Haute, Ind., speak louder of her success in voice culture than your scribe could write. Miss Myrtle is a graduate of the Missouri Conservatory of Music, and is an adept in the art of beautifying time. Hazel Green should feel proud of them, inasmuch as it was the former home of their parents.

Your writer had the pleasure of an interview with Col. Richard Thompson, of Indiana, a few days ago. He is in his ninetieth year, hale and hearty, and familiarly known as old Dick. He has seen and shaken hands with every President except Washington and Adams. He was a member of the 13th Congress, and was later a Senator with Crittenden and Benton. He was Secretary of the Navy under Hays, and since that time has lived quietly at his home in Terre Haute. He was intimately acquainted with all the great men of Clay and Webster's time, and was a close personal friend of Lincoln. He has attended every National Republican Convention since that party was organized, and this is the first year he has missed the Indiana State Convention. The old statesman passed around his box of Havana cigars, after which he told me many interesting things of the early history of his native State, Virginia, and Kentucky, afterward his adopted home. He said he had often led Daniel Webster home after a Washington banquet, loaded to the guards with France's choicest vintage. There are no doubt many greater men today than old Dick, but there is none whose public life covers such a wonderful period of usefulness to his country and party.

George Byrd left Monday for Texas, so we are informed.

W. R. Campbell, of the Chapel, was visiting in this neighborhood.

H. C. and C. C. Long went to Licking river Monday on a fishing tour.

John Davidson and Mr. Horton were visiting in this neighborhood Sunday.

Miss Bonnie Cecil was thrown from her horse Sunday and slightly injured.

James and Robert Malley went to Mt. Sterling Saturday after seed wheat.

James Taulbee and family were the guests of W. H. Blankenship Sunday night.

The many friends of Uncle John S. Nickell will be glad to know that he is able to be out again.

A great many of the young people of this vicinity attended the big meeting at Long Branch Sunday.

A. J. Blankenship sowed a turnip patch this month a year ago and they didn't come up until last spring, owing to the dry fall last year.

The funeral of Mr. Nelson Nickell's little daughter, who died last Sunday night, was preached at Consolation Monday afternoon by Revs. Johnson and Adams. The remains were interred in the Gillespie graveyard.

Robt. Day is visiting his brother, B. F. Day, at Mt. Sterling this week.

Messrs. Phelps, Ed Meeks, R. B. Gambrell and Shoemate went to Hazel Green Monday.

Messrs. Henry, Clarke and others, of this place, drove cattle to Mt. Sterling last week.

Rev. J. T. Pieratt preached at the church here from Saturday till Tuesday having one addition.

Oscar Young has the contract for building Edgar Kash's house, and left Monday to begin work.

Mrs. Jordan Wills, who has been visiting her daughters at and near Hazel Green, returned home last Friday.

Mrs. Belle Manker has returned home from her extended visit and business trip at Campton for the past few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Millard Ritchie and baby Fern, visited her brothers Edgar and Doc Kash, near Hazel Green, from Sunday till Monday.

Messrs. John Rose and son, W. T. Swango, H. C. Quicksall and others, passed through here Friday with cattle on their way to Mt. Sterling.

Mr. Jas. Shoemate, who has been traveling for quite awhile arrived at his father-in-laws (Mr. Manker's) last week, and on Thursday last he and Mrs. Nellie were reunited by Dr. Kendrick.

Mrs. Clara Sorrell, wife of Shepherd Sorrell, near Clifty, died at her father's (Everett Lytle) on last Sunday, aged about 17 years. She was buried on Monday. A young husband and babe and a host of relatives and friends mourn her loss.

PEACE DECLARED.

The Order of President McKinley as Given in a Proclamation Declaring Peace.

PROTOCOL SIGNED AUGUST 12, 1898.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The President has issued the following proclamation:

By the President of the United States of America—A Proclamation:

Whereas, By a protocol concluded and signed August 12, 1898, by Wm. R. Day, Secretary of State of the United States, and His Excellency Jules Cambon, Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary of the Republic of France at Washington, respectively representing for this purpose the Government of the United States and the Government of Spain, the United States and Spain have formally agreed upon the terms upon which negotiations for the establishment of peace between the two countries shall be undertaken; and,

Whereas, It is in said protocol agreed that upon its conclusion and signature hostilities between the two countries shall be suspended, and that notice to that effect shall be given as soon as possible by each Government to the commanders of its military and naval forces;

Now, therefore, I, William McKinley, President of the United States, do, in accordance with the stipulations of the protocol, declare and proclaim on the part of the United States a suspension of hostilities, and do hereby command that orders be immediately given through the proper channels to the commanders of the military and naval forces of the United States to abstain from all acts inconsistent with this proclamation. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington this 12th day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety-eight and of the Independence of the United States the one hundred and twenty-third.

WM. McKINLEY.

By the President: WM. R. DAY, Secretary of State.

A copy of the proclamation has been cabled to our army and navy commanders. Spain will cable her commanders like instructions.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

FOR CONGRESS—10TH DISTRICT.

Hon. Thos. Y. Fitzpatrick,
OF FLOYD COUNTY.

Young Mr. Leiter has settled down. Old Mr. Leiter is settling up.

Among the gentlemen afflicted with cold feet may be mentioned Sagasta.

AGUINALDO should come over and meet Mark Hanna. He would like Mark.

The placing of Admiral Dewey behind Sampson in rank will cause the people to howl at the injustice.

PERHAPS Lieutenant Hobson and Miss Arnold would be willing to pose for a biograph picture of the now famous kissing act.

This glorious climate of America has demonstrated that it is not only Democratic, but contains more dead game soldiers than any country in the world.

The failure of the late President Garfield's son to get a Congressional nomination in Ohio as a Hanna candidate is considered a merited rebuke for the young man for getting into bad company.

THE announcement that Dave Colson will be a candidate for Governor, in light of the fact that he is Colonel of the Fourth, Congressman from the Eleventh District, ad infinitum, leads again to the question, Is it Kentucky or Colson?

WHITELAW REED has been named as one of the commissioners of peace, if the opinion of Secretary Day goes. Reid is one of the best posted men on the situation in the Union today, and while his politics is other than we prefer, he is the man.

PEACE has been declared, but it must be remembered that that peace is on a protocol. We may be put to great inconvenience by accepting such terms. The insurgent leader in the Philippines and the insurgent leader of the Cubans both show a disposition to rebel, and they may give trouble.

THE government is $300,000 ahead on its war expenses, computed by the month, and when it is considered that only 2 cents on the 100 has been charged as revenue we can realize what an immense people our 70,000,000 citizens are. Spain nor no other country should want to tackle us.

THE last issue of the Gatling Gun is the best number we have seen. Its "Crack Shots at Cleveland's Crack Command" shows it to be a marksman of no mean calibre. He shoots to hurt, and generally wounds whenever he fires. Walter Hurt can say more about people that he don't like, and come nearer making 'em like him, than any man in America.

FOUR BROTHERS.

On a Bicycle Tour, Find the Man Who Killed Their Father 10 Years Before.

A special from Flemingsburg, under date of August 11, says:

A strange incident transpired in this county Tuesday, which may result in the capture and conviction of an escaped prisoner who is charged with murder, and who for ten years has made his abode in a wild section of Fleming county known as Mexico.

Four young men of Covington known as the Owens boys were touring this part of the State on bicycles, and on Monday lost their course in the western part of the county and had to take to foot. They were in a very rough and sparsely populated part of the county, and in their wanderings they came across Richard Hunt, aged sixty, and inquired their way to this place.

Scarcely had the four boys seen Hunt than they believed they recognized in him the man who ten years before had killed their father, James Owens, in Bath county. They were quite small at the time of the killing but they had witnessed the tragedy and felt sure they could not be mistaken.

They at once came to this place and swore out a warrant for Hunt's arrest on a charge of murder. The warrant was placed in the hands of Deputy Sheriff Daugherty, and the four sons, in company with the officer, have gone out to arrest the man. Hunt has a wife and two or three grown children, and all armed and considered dangerous.

James Owens was killed in Bath county ten years ago, and the killing is said to have been unprovoked. The murderer was at the time arrested and placed in jail, but he broke jail and escaped. From that day to this the authorities have never been able to capture him.

Several years after the killing of Owens the family of the murdered man moved to Covington, Ky., where they now reside.

August Court at Mt. Sterling.

If any convincing evidence was needed to prove that Mt. Sterling is the greatest stock market in Kentucky a peep into the stock pens there last Monday would surely have sufficed. There were between 2,500 and 3,000 cattle on the market, of good quality, and fully 5,000 sheep, and crowds of buyers, not only from neighboring counties but distant States.

Best steers sold as high as $4.00 but they were extra. Most sales from $4 to $4.50; good yearlings, $4.50; heifers, $3.50; cows, $2.50 to $3.25; bulls, $3.00.

Trade in sheep was brisk. Ewes brought from $3.20 to $3.40 per head; weathers, 3c. per pound; lambs, 3 1/2 to 4c.

Beware of Ointments that contain Mercury as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists, price 75c. per bottle.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

The Best Remedy for Flux.

Mr. John Mathias, a well known stock dealer of Pulaski, Ky., says: "After suffering for over a week with flux, and my physician having failed to relieve me, I was advised to try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy, and have the pleasure of stating that the half of one bottle cured me." For sale by J. T. Day.

POLK ADAMS, of Frenchburg, who enlisted and went to Cuba soon after the commencement of hostilities, is reported to have died recently of yellow fever at Santiago. He was a son of Mr. Joel Adams, formerly of Frenchburg, but now a resident of Rothwell, and a nephew of Elder H. D. Adams.

James Young, of Spencer, accidentally shot himself last Saturday while handling a revolver. He will recover.

Hon. A. W. Bascom, of Bath, has been appointed by Gov. Bradley as Colonel on his staff to attend the unveiling of the Federal and Confederate monuments at Chattanooga.

Ex-Lieut. Gov. M. C. Alford will go to Wrangle, Alaska, in the near future, where he and other Kentucky gentlemen are engaged in laying out a site for the new city, which is growing very fast.

The first log tide in nearly two years swept thousands of logs down the Cumberland last week. The river was higher than ever before known at this season and some damage was done. The Kentucky was also out of its banks in places.

A dispatch from Cynthia says word has been received there that cattle in the lower part of Bracken county were going blind to an alarming extent. It appears to be an epidemic, as all the cattle that come in contact with those already afflicted suffer the same consequence. The people are at a loss to know what to do to stop the spread of the unknown disease.

IS YOUR HAIR TURNING GRAY?

What does your mirror say? Does it tell you of some little streaks of gray? Are you pleased? Do your friends of the same age show this loss of power also? Just remember that gray hair never becomes darker without help, while dark hair rapidly becomes gray when once the change begins.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

will bring back to your hair the color of youth. It never fails. It is just as sure as that heat melts snow, or that water quenches fire. It cleanses the scalp also and prevents the formation of dandruff. It feeds and nourishes the bulbs of the hair making them produce a luxuriant growth. It stops the hair from falling out and gives a fine soft finish to the hair as well.

We have a book on the Hair and Scalp which you may obtain free upon request. If you do not obtain the benefits you expected from the use of the Vigor, write the Doctor about it. Address, DR. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

THE HERALD.

MR. WILLIE PIERATT left for Torrent Tuesday morning on a business trip. He will be absent about a week.

MISS NETTIE WHEELER, of this place, who is teaching school at Why Not, Lee county, spent from last Thursday until Monday at home.

ISAAC ELKINS, of Holly, who has been confined to his room with an attack of fever for the past five or six weeks, is able to be about again.

MRS. LOU DAY, who is at Hot Springs, Ark., in the quest of health, writes to her daughter, Mrs. John Evans, that she is much improved, and hopes to be able to return in time for the Fair.

All parties indebted to me, or to the firm of Rose & Davis, are requested to call and settle immediately. Respectfully, JOHN H. ROSE.

WE ARE informed that a crowd of about 500 people was present at the big meeting on Grassy last Sunday. Several ministers were in attendance, and the audience was treated to some excellent sermons.

REV. JAS. R. WORD preached his farewell sermon at Elkins' Chapel, on Holly, last Sunday. He says they are good people over there. Elkins' Chapel will be attached to the Campton work next year.

THINK about your health. Do not allow scrofula taints to develop in your blood. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla now and keep yourself WELL.

OUR poet and artist has just completed a handsome job on a suit of parlor furniture at the residence of Mr. John Rose. He also did some nice oak finishing on the furniture at Mr. Ova Swango's residence this week.

BRO. WALLIN has a piece of the rope used in hanging Bad Tom Smith at Jackson several years since. While on a trip to Breathitt county last week it was presented to him by a gentleman who clerked for Mr. Day at Frozen.

ABOUT fifteen prominent preachers and professors are booked to deliver addresses at the big camp meeting to be held at Bethel Congregational Church, near Spradling, commencing September 10 and continuing 8 or 10 days.

REV. JAS. R. WORD will preach at Rose Chapel, on Lacy creek, next Sunday at 10:30 o'clock, and again in the afternoon. This will be his last service at that place before Conference, which meets Sept. 14, at Flemingsburg, Ky.

LETTERS were received here Monday night by a young lady from Messrs. Sam Hounshell and Bob Dicken, members of Prater's cavalry in camp at Chickamauga, and Mr. Hounshell's missive contained the glad tidings that he would shortly make a visit home on a furlough.

A BURGLAR entered the residence of Mrs. Ella Murphy one day last week and purloined a bright silver dollar from her trunk by cutting a hole in the bottom. He failed to get away with his prize, as the hole he had cut through the floor was not large enough to admit the passage of the coin, so the rat was cheated of his ill-gotten gains.

The Rev. W. B. Costley, of Stockbridge, Ga., while attending to his pastoral duties at Ellenwood, that state, was attacked by cholera morbus. He says: "By chance I happened to get hold of a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and I think it was the means of saving my life. It relieved me at once." For sale by J. T. Written for THE HERALD. MY ABSENT BOY IN BLUE.

DEDICATED TO E. L.

I'm longing and I'm sighing,
I'm living yet I'm dying,
And sometimes I am crying
For one so far away.

He was my own true sweetheart,
And from him 'twas awful hard to part,
But off to the war he took a dart,
And I haven't seen him since.

And often I would read the lines
He sent to me in loving rhymes
Which filled my heart like music's chiming,
From this sweetheart of mine.

He ought to know my heart's been true
To him alone, dear boy in blue;
I love him still, indeed I do,
You can bet your bottom dollar.

But, O, it seems a change has come
Since the cruel war was first begun.
Perhaps he's laid low by a son-of-a-gun
Of a Spanish cavalierman.

One day has passed and I've not had
A letter from my soldier lad,
Now don't you think that just too bad?
Maybe he's given me the shake.

SAM WILSON.

ONE evening last week Mrs. N. L. Ware discovered a blacksnake about 25 feet long in her kitchen. The sight of the snake frightened Mrs. Ware and she at once gave a scream that alarmed her neighbor, Mr. Frank Murphy, who ran in where the snake lay coiled, and with a stick quickly dispatched his snakeship. Mr. N. L. Ware, who has been absent in Tennessee for about two months, came home in a day or two after the above occurrence and was very sorry to learn that his pet snake had been killed. He says he has spared this snake, as he would all blacksnakes, because of the fact that blacksnakes are such excellent "mousters and rattlers." Mr. Ware does not believe that the scriptural injunction, "the seed of the woman shall bruise the serpent's head," applies to blacksnakes. "Speaking of snakes," said Mr. Ware, "I heard quite a good snake story while in Tennessee. A reliable gentleman, Mr. W. J. Griffith, of Oliver Springs, Tennessee, told me that he was sitting on his veranda reading, and to rest his eyes he commenced to look across the road that runs immediately in front of his home, when he saw a blacksnake on the opposite side of the road. Presently it came toward his house, with a halt now and then, as though it was trailing something. On it came, up the steps, across the porch and into the house, where it crawled between the ticks of a bed, and in two or three minutes it came out with a large rattlesnake firmly gripped close behind the head. It pulled itself and the rattler to the road, where it quickly settled accounts with the rattler, and went away as it had come. Some folks in that neighborhood think the blacksnake was sent there by divine power to trail up and destroy the deadly rattler."

WHAT came near resulting in a serious accident occurred last Saturday afternoon near Swango Springs. Colonel Geo. Rice, who prides himself on being "one of the finest" when it comes to driving a double team, dumped a hack load of ladies in that vicinity, but fortunately no one was seriously hurt. Poet Sam Wilson says Rice can't drive a tack, much less a double team of mules.

CLORA BELLE, the infant daughter of Mr. Nelson Nickell, aged one year and 18 days, died last Sunday after an illness of three or four months. The parents have the sympathy of many relatives and friends. Mr. and Mrs. Nickell return their most sincere thanks to their many neighbors for kindnesses shown during the illness of their little daughter.

MR. EARL WORTHINGTON and Mr. Ben Thackston, of Mayslick, Mason county, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ware on Sunday. Mr. Worthington is a nephew of Mrs. Ware, and will remain here for some time. Mr. Thackston is out at Mr. Arbery Swango's to drink the justly celebrated Swango water.

Chronic Dyspepsia Cured.

AFTER suffering for nearly thirty years from dyspepsia, Mrs. H. E. Dugdale, wife of a prominent business man of Warsaw, N. Y., writes: "For 28 years, I was a constant sufferer from dyspepsia and a weak stomach. The lightest food produced distress, causing severe pain and the formation of gas. No matter how careful of my diet I suffered agonizing pain after eating. I was treated by many physicians and tried numerous remedies without permanent help. Two years ago I began taking Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills and Nerve. Within a week I commenced improving, and persisting in the treatment I was soon able to eat what I liked, with no evil effects. I keep them at hand and a single dose dispels any old symptoms." Dr. Miles' Remedies are sold by all druggists under a positive guarantee, first bottle benefits or money refunded. Book on diseases of the heart and nerves free. Address: DR. A Social Fallacy.

[Written for THE HERALD by Lady Cook, Doughty House, Richmond, Surrey, England.]

There are many social fallacies which have for ages continued to live vigorously, and which die hard and slowly. Among them is that most pernicious one that trade is undignified and labor a reproach. No matter what moralists and philosophers have said as to the worth of work and the value of commerce, no matter what has been written by the poets or preached by the divines, fashionable society shut its ears and its understanding to all, and decreed that, whatever their personal character or abilities, those who engaged in trade or labor should be excluded from its circles.

This opprobrious distinction between idleness and usefulness to the prejudice of the latter, or between one kind of usefulness and another, is not indigenous sentiment, but was continental, and imported hither. It had its rise in an inflated military pride. Our practical forefathers honored trade, and by its encouragement prepared the way for England's greatness. And they regarded all classes of idlers, whether aristocrats or "sturdy vagabonds" with keen severity. Indeed, no one can read Blackstone's Commentaries on the laws of England without coming to the conclusion, that not our wealth, population, and power alone, but our liberties also, had their origin in trade. Trade and freedom marched hand in hand, acted and reacted upon each other, and built up the world's greatest Empire.

The wisest monarchs of England, including Alfred and Elizabeth, have promoted the extension of trade by their example as well as by their laws. Elizabeth had a share in many speculations. During the Stuart and Tudor periods, merchants were honored guests at court. If we except the purely feudal period, it was not until the commencement of the present dynasty that the narrow ideas of social dignity, which have so long prevailed in Germany, were introduced here. Since that time, and for the first time in our history, the great princes of England from barons to dukes, have been compelled to give precedence to every petty German prince who finds his way to this country, and our merchant princes have been held of small social importance unless they could compel the royal smiles through their political influence.

Fortunately this system, which has lasted nearly two centuries, is giving way through its internal falsity. Numbers of noble and even of ducal houses are re-emerging in commercial ventures. Earls are voluntarily becoming cab proprietors, wine merchants, dairy-men and cattle breeders. Dukes are company directors, and titled ladies run bonnet shops and dress establishments. We have not heard that any of them have been excluded from "the upper snuggles" in consequence. It would seem, therefore, that sound common sense is likely to prevail, and that eventually every useful career will be deemed honorable in any rank of society. Fashion has taken a slight turn, and we must not be surprised if we see a countess directing a steam laundry, or a viscount master of a merchant ship.

It was the same abroad. The illustrious De Medicis, father and son, were merchants and presidents of the Florentine Republic, equal in greatness and power to any of the kings of their time. The Doges and State Councillors of Venice, whose faded splendors are the marvel of Europe, were merchants and controlled the trade of the East.

How paltry and pitiable have been the methods by which class has entrenched itself from contact with class, each feeling that it must "draw a line" in its own favor, and making every town and village in the kingdom a hot-bed of jealousies and hatreds. Moneyless proprietors of land disdained the landless proprietors of money. The man who could let his farms on hire scorned the man who made them fruitful.

"Wholesale" would have nothing to say to "retail." Small gentry cocked their noses at the apothecary, but admitted a physician. Clergymen of the Established Church refused to shake hands with dissenting ministers. When a merchant or manufacturer bought an estate and settled in the country, he was a nouveau riche among the landed proprietors, not worth calling upon, and the new-made noble was a parvenu to his titled brethren. The royal source of honor was not a sufficient guarantee. Generations of idleness and uselessness, usually accompanied by debauchery and extravagance, can, however, convert a parvenu family into a truly noble one!

Yet we are proud to know that a large number of England's most honored families are derived from the humble ranks of industry, and from the trading classes. The ancestors of Lord Foley and of the Earl of Dudley were poor Staffordshire nailmakers; those of Lord Leigh, the Earl of Northbrook, Earl Fitzwilliam, and the Duke of Leeds, were city merchants, to say nothing of many others. Sir J. Bernard Burke, in his "Vicissitudes of Families," says, "The present House of Lords cannot claim among its members a single male descendant of any one of the Barons who were chosen to enforce Magna Charta, or of any one of the peers who are known to have fought at Agincourt."

Not one-fourteenth of the peerages that had been created up to 1675 exist today, notwithstanding the peerage of England is, as Disraeli said, "the finest in Europe." No greater tribute of praise was ever paid to it than by Rousseau—revolutionary and democrat that he was—where he says in "Nouvelle Heloise," "If you know the English nobility, you must be aware that it is the most enlightened, the best taught, the wisest and the bravest in Europe. This being so, it is unnecessary to inquire if it be the most ancient, for, in speaking of what it is, no question arises of what it has been. The peers of England are certainly not the slaves of the prince, but his friends; not the tyrants of the people, but its chiefs, its guarantees of liberty, sustainers of their country, and supporters of the throne, they form an invincible equilibrium between the people and the sovereign. Their first duty is to the nation, their second to him who governs it: it is not his will but his right that they consult: supreme administrators of the laws in the House of Lords, and sometimes law makers, they render justice equally to the people and the crown, and they allow no one to say 'God and my sword,' but only 'God and my right.'"

Were it not that law, politics and trade are constantly recruiting the peers with new blood, they would dwindle into insignificance, for no family, plebeian, noble, or royal can escape the vicissitudes of time. As Lord Chief Justice, Sir Andrew Crewe, in his splendid charge, said of the De Veres: "Time hath his revolutions; there must be a period and an end to all things temporal—finis rerum—an end of names and dignities and whatsoever is terrene, and why not of De Vere? For where is Bohun? Where is Mowbray? Where is Mortimer? Nay, which is more and most of all, where is Plantagenet? They are entombed in the urns and sepulchres of mortality! And yet, let the name and dignity of De Vere stand so long as it pleaseth God."

Extravagance, gambling, racing and betting are the means by which old families are brought low. Idleness and profligacy extinguish them. It is just, then, that those who have risen by their places in the councils and honors of the country.

For labor restores, renews and re-creates, and is therefore God-like. The raw material, neglected it may be for ages, is woven or hammered or otherwise manufactured into things of beauty or utility, whereby the toiling millions provide for themselves and benefit the world. The trader, exchanging the products of one part for those of another, or supplying the daily needs of the people, also thrives by rendering a service to others. He cheapens the necessities of life, and brings its luxuries within the reach of all. He opposes war and diffuses the bounties of peace. Surely both labor and trade are noble callings, provided they be well and honestly followed.

When King Prempeh of Coomassie was told by the war correspondent of the Daily Telegraph that he was neither a warrior nor a carrier, the captive monarch insisted that in that case he must be a great fetish-maker, and implored the correspondent to write him out one. Eventually he wrote as much as he could remember of the lines beginning, "Mary had a little lamb," and the king wears the words around his neck as a potent preventive against evil. Those amongst us who neither fight nor work have succeeded well as makers of fetish, manufacturers of social fallacies to be worn on the hearts of the people. One of these is that it is ordained by Providence that some should work and others not, and that the many must work for the few. We answer, "It is false and blasphemous. All should work, and work for each other." There is none but might do some good thing. And to that most despicable and much-to-be-pitied man—the selfish, idle man of means—we apply Carlyle's words on "The Landed": "Alas! is there no noble work for this man, too? Has he not thick-headed, ignorant bores; lazy, enslaved farmers; weedy lands? Lands! has he not weary, heavy-laden ploughers of land; immortal souls of men ploughing, ditching, day-drudging, bare of back, empty of stomach, nigh desperate of heart; and none peaceably to help them but he under heaven?"

About one month ago my child, which is fifteen months old, had an attack of diarrhoea accompanied by vomiting. I gave it such remedies as are usually given in such cases, but as nothing gave relief, we sent for a physician and it was under his care for a week. At this time the child had been sick for about ten days and was having about twenty-five operations of the bowels every twelve hours, and we were convinced that unless it soon obtained relief it would not live. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was recommended, and I decided to try it. I soon noticed a change for the better; by its continued use a complete cure was brought about and it is now perfectly healthy.—C. L. Boggs, Stumptown, Gilmer Co., W. Va. For sale by J. T. Day.
